

|                                                  |      |
|--------------------------------------------------|------|
| Dedication                                       | i    |
| Acknowledgement                                  | ii   |
| Table of Contents                                | iii  |
| List of Tables                                   | viii |
| List of Figures                                  | ix   |
| Abstract                                         | x    |
| Arabic Abstract                                  | xii  |
| Chapter One: Introduction                        | 1    |
| Chapter Two: Literature Review                   | 3    |
| 2.1 Food fermentation in general                 | 3    |
| 2.2 Type of fermentation                         | 4    |
| 2.3 Fermented food in nutrition                  | 4    |
| 2.4 Microbiology of fermented fish products      | 4    |
| 2.5 Microbiology of salt used for cured fish     | 6    |
| 2.6 Spoilage of fermented fish                   | 7    |
| 2.7 Biochemical changes during fish fermentation | 8    |
| 2.7.1 Enzymology                                 | 8    |
| 2.7.2 Chemical Composition                       | 8    |
| 2.7.3 Aroma and flavour                          | 9    |
| 2.8 Quality and safety of finished products      | 10   |
| 2.8.1 Quality                                    | 10   |
| 2.8.2 Safety                                     | 10   |
| 2.8.2.1 Hygiene of processing                    | 10   |
| 2.8.2.2 Histamine poisoning                      | 10   |
| 2.8.2.3 Clostridium Poisoning                    | 11   |
| 2.8.2.4 Salmonella Poisoning                     | 11   |
| 2.8.2.5 Mould contamination                      | 12   |
| 2.8.2.6 Insect and mites infestation             | 12   |
| 2.8.2.7 Pesticides used for preservation         | 13   |
| 2.9 Fermented fish in Asia                       | 13   |
| 2.9.1 Fish Paste (Bagoong)                       | 13   |
| 2.9.1.1 Product                                  | 13   |

|            |                                                                |    |
|------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 2.9.1.2    | Preparation                                                    | 14 |
| 2.9.2      | Fish Sauce (Patis)                                             | 14 |
| 2.9.2.1    | Product                                                        | 14 |
| 2.9.2.2    | Preparation                                                    | 14 |
| 2.10       | Fermented fish in Africa                                       | 15 |
| 2.10.1     | Overview                                                       | 15 |
| 2.10.2     | Gender role in fish processing                                 | 16 |
| 2.10.3     | Traditional methods of fish fermentation                       | 16 |
| 2.10.3.1   | Drying of fermented fish                                       | 16 |
| 2.10.3.2   | Examples of traditional methods of fish fermentation in Africa | 17 |
| 2.10.3.2.1 | Ndagala                                                        | 17 |
| 2.10.3.2.2 | Guedj                                                          | 17 |
| 2.10.3.2.3 | Salanga                                                        | 17 |
| 2.11       | Fermented fish in the Sudan                                    | 18 |
| 2.11.1     | General                                                        | 18 |
| 2.11.2     | Fessiekh                                                       | 19 |
| 2.11.2.1   | General                                                        | 19 |
| 2.11.2.2   | Methods of Fessiekh preparation                                | 20 |
| 2.11.2.3   | Similar fish products of the world                             | 21 |
| 2.11.2.4   | Quality , nutritive value and safety of Fessiekh               | 22 |
| 2.11.3     | Mindeshi                                                       | 23 |
| 2.11.3.1   | General                                                        | 23 |
| 2.11.3.2   | Mindeshi preparation methods                                   | 23 |
| 2.11.3.3   | Quality and nutritive value                                    | 25 |
| 2.11.4     | Kejeik                                                         | 25 |
| 2.11.4.1   | General                                                        | 25 |
| 2.11.4.2   | Kejeik preparation method                                      | 26 |
| 2.11.4.3   | Quality, safety and nutritive value of Kejeik                  | 27 |
| 2.11.5     | Terkin                                                         | 29 |
| 2.11.5.1   | General                                                        | 29 |
| 2.11.5.2   | Historical background of Terkin                                | 29 |
| 2.11.5.3   | Terkin preparation methods                                     | 30 |
| 2.11.5.4   | The Terkin dish                                                | 33 |
| 2.11.5.5   | Nutritional aspects of Terkin                                  | 33 |
| 2.11.5.6   | Microbiology and safety of Terkin                              | 35 |

|           |                                                  |    |
|-----------|--------------------------------------------------|----|
| 3.1       | General Experimental Strategy                    | 37 |
| 3.2       | Preparation of laboratory- made Terkin           | 37 |
| 3.3       | Sampling methods and collection of samples       | 38 |
| 3.4       | Proximate analysis                               | 39 |
| 3.4.1     | Moisture content                                 | 39 |
| 3.4.2     | Fat determination                                | 39 |
| 3.4.3     | Total Protein                                    | 39 |
| 3.4.4     | Ash determination                                | 40 |
| 3.4.5     | pH                                               | 40 |
| 3.4.6     | Calcium                                          | 40 |
| 3.4.7     | Sodium                                           | 40 |
| 3.5       | Microbiological Methods                          | 41 |
| 3.5.1     | Preparation of serial dilutions                  | 41 |
| 3.5.2     | Total viable count                               | 41 |
| 3.5.2.1   | Culture Media Used                               | 42 |
| 3.5.2.1.1 | Plate Count Agar ( Oxoid)                        | 42 |
| 3.5.2.1.2 | Nutrient Agar ( NA) ( Oxoid)                     | 42 |
| 3.5.3     | Counting of Anaerobic Bacteria                   | 42 |
| 3.5.4     | Counting of Spore-forming / Halophilic Bacteria  | 43 |
| 3.5.4.1   | Counting of Halophilic Bacteria                  | 43 |
| 3.5.4.2   | Counting of Halophilic Anaerobic Bacteria        | 43 |
| 3.5.4.3   | Aerobic Spore-forming Bacteria                   | 43 |
| 3.5.4.4   | Anaerobic Spore-forming Bacteria                 | 43 |
| 3.5.4.5   | Spore-forming Halophilic Bacteria                | 43 |
| 3.5.4.6   | Anaerobic Spore-forming Halophilic Bacteria      | 44 |
| 3.5.5     | Moulds and Yeast Count                           | 44 |
| 3.5.5.1   | Potato Dextrose Agar ( PDA)                      | 44 |
| 3.5.6     | Presumptive Coliform Test                        | 44 |
| 3.5.6.1   | Confirmed Coliform Test                          | 45 |
| 3.5.6.2   | Faecal Coliform Test                             | 45 |
| 3.5.6.3   | MacConkey Broth (Oxoid)                          | 45 |
| 3.5.6.4   | Brilliant Green Bile Broth ( BGB Broth) ( Oxoid) | 46 |
| 3.5.6.5   | E.C. Medium Broth ( Oxoid)                       | 46 |
| 3.5.7     | Isolation and Characterization of Bacteria       | 46 |

|                                                                                      |    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 3.5.7.1 Nutrient Broth (NB)                                                          | 47 |
| 3.5.7.2 Hugh and Leifson's Medium: ( Hugh and Leifson's , 1953)                      | 47 |
| 3.5.7.3 Biochemical Test                                                             | 47 |
| 3.5.7.3.1 Gram Stain                                                                 | 47 |
| 3.5.7.3.2 Oxidase Test                                                               | 48 |
| 3.5.7.3.3 Motility Test                                                              | 48 |
| 3.5.7.3.4 Oxidation-Fermentation Test ( O/F Test)                                    | 48 |
| 3.5.7.3.5 Catalase Test                                                              | 48 |
| Chapter Four : Results and Discussion                                                | 49 |
| 4.1 Microbiological examination of collected samples                                 | 49 |
| 4.1.1 Microbiological properties of oven-cooked home-made Terkin                     | 49 |
| 4.1.2 Microbiological analysis of solarized home-made Terkin                         | 49 |
| 4.2 Microbiological characteristics of commercial samples                            | 53 |
| 4.3 Identification of bacteria isolated from collected samples                       | 56 |
| 4.4 Microbiological changes during Terkin fermentation                               | 64 |
| 4.4.1 Changes of pH during fermentation                                              | 64 |
| 4.4.2 Moisture Content                                                               | 64 |
| 4.4.3 Total viable count and anaerobic bacterial plate count                         | 66 |
| 4.4.4 Microbiological analysis of halophilic and spore-forming bacterial plate count | 67 |
| 4.4.4.1 Halophilic bacterial plate count                                             | 67 |
| 4.4.4.2 Spore-forming bacterial plate count                                          | 69 |
| 4.4.5 Coliform bacteria                                                              | 70 |
| 4.4.6 Yeast and moulds                                                               | 70 |
| 4.5 Microbial load of salt used in Terkin preparation                                | 71 |
| 4.6 Variations in the dominant bacterial genera during Terkin processing             | 71 |
| 4.7 Chemical analysis of collected home-made Terkin                                  | 72 |
| 4.8 Chemical analysis of collected commercial samples                                | 80 |
| 4.9 Chemical analysis of fresh and fermenting fish during preparation of Terkin      | 81 |

|            |    |
|------------|----|
| References | 84 |
|------------|----|

LIST OF TABLES

| TableNo. |                                                                      | pageNo. |
|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------|
| 1            | Microbial plate counts (CFU/g) of oven-cooked home-made Terkin       | 50          |
| 2            | Microbial plate counts (CFU/g) of sun-heated home-made Terkin        | 52          |
| 3            | Microbial plate counts (CFU/g) of commercial Terkin                  | 55          |
| 4            | Aerobic bacterial genera isolated from collected samples             | 57          |
| 5            | Anaerobic bacterial genera isolated from collected samples           | 61          |
| 6            | Bacterial genera isolated from oven-cooked laboratory made Terkin    | 73          |
| 7            | Proximate composition (% of dry wt ) of oven-cooked home-made Terkin | 77          |
| 8            | Proximate composition (% of dry wt ) of sun-heated home-made Terkin  | 79          |
| 9            | Proximate composition (% of dry wt) of commercial Terkin samples     | 82          |
| 10           | Proximate composition ( % of dry wt % ) of laboratory sample         | 83          |

LIST OF FIGURES

| Fig. No. |                                                                                 | Page No. |
|----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|
| 1        | Microbial count of fermented fish product ‘ Terkin’ during fermentation process | 65       |
| 2        | Microbial count of fermented fish product ‘ Terkin’ during fermentation process | 68       |